

Cross-border energy storage equipment

Overview

What is cross-border energy trading?

Cross-border energy trading refers to expanding the power market by connecting the grid with South Asian countries including Bhutan, Nepal, and Bangladesh. This way, areas rich in renewable energy can balance the supply and demand of energy.

What is compressed air energy storage (CAES)?

The press conference was attended by nearly 200 industry leaders, experts, and media representatives, including: Compressed air energy storage (CAES) is a highly efficient large-scale energy storage technology that stores excess electricity by compressing air during off-peak hours and releases it to generate power during peak demand.

Will China's energy storage capacity exceed 50 GW by 2030?

Industry projections indicate that China's compressed air energy storage capacity will exceed 50 GW by 2030, enabling annual CO₂ emission reductions of over 200 million tons - equivalent to shutting down 60 one-gigawatt coal-fired power plants - thereby providing robust support for building a new-type power system.

Does China's Energy Storage Technology set a new global benchmark?

Chen Haisheng, Chairman of CNESA, noted: "China's CAES technology has advanced from 100 MW to 300 MW in a decade, setting a new global benchmark." The Energy Storage Industry White Paper 2025 reveals that global new energy storage installations reached 165.4 GW in 2024, with China contributing 43.7 GW of new capacity.
